LETTER

Transmitting a Communication, February 2003 from

MIKE QUIGLEY, County Commissioner

Re: Litigation involving the Sheriff

Over the course of the past few years, members of the Litigation Subcommittee of the Cook County Board Finance Committee have grown increasingly frustrated by ongoing payouts to victims of brutality and excessive force at the hands of Cook County Sheriff's Deputies. While a certain measure of litigation is always inevitable, some of the outrageous fact patterns in the suits against the Sheriff's Department add to the Commissioners' sense that oversight and accountability at the Sheriff's Department is lacking.

Lack of Internal Oversight

There have been 47 cases against the Sheriff's Department in the last four years involving misconduct. In 24 of these cases, the Sheriff's Office did not even conduct an internal investigation into the veracity of the allegations. In other law enforcement agencies, the Chicago Police Department, for example, a lawsuit against the department automatically triggers an internal inquiry.

Analyses of internal handling of inmate grievances also reveal a lack of follow-up on the part of the Department. The John Howard Association, our court-appointed monitor of conditions at the jail, noted in 2001 that from January 2000, to November 2000, only 61.2% of inmate grievances filed ever received responses. From December 2000 to February 2001, 54.9 % received responses. Inmate grievances are relevant to the discussion of conditions at the jail, but also are useful for demonstrating trends. Numerous grievances filed against a particular guard, for example, may suggest a need for retraining and/or discipline. Such steps cannot be taken if the grievances are never even looked at or investigated. A more responsive inmate grievance process should, in the long run, lead to less litigation.

The litigation payouts and the department's repetitive failure to conduct internal investigations suggest that Cook County should conduct an independent investigation into the Sheriff's Department to analyze the recurring nature of these incidents and the Department's handling of them. The L.A. County Board of Supervisors called for such a study in the early 90's and has seen significant improvements in the Department's handling of force cases ever since.

Reform of the L.A. County Sheriff's Department

Background

After four controversial shootings in Los Angeles by the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department (LASD) in the summer of 1991, the L.A. County Supervisors appointed a judge (Judge Kolts) to lead an inquiry into brutality complaints. Judge Kolts appointed attorney Merrick Bobb to lead the inquiry into the LASD. He in turn, assembled a staff of more than 60 lawyers, certified public accountants, and academics, plus a psychologist, a newspaper editor and others to conduct a thorough inquiry. The inquiry took six months and involved the review of thousands of pages of records. In addition, the county held three public hearings, one in each of three field operation regions. The county sent out press releases about the hearings and held the hearings in county parks so that the atmosphere was open and non-threatening. The team took testimony from over 60 individuals and organizations. The entire inquiry lasted for six months.

In July 1992, the team released the result of the inquiry, also known as the "Kolts Report." It is a comprehensive, intensive analysis of virtually every aspect of the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department. The team reviewed the Department's recruitment, training and continuing education efforts. They evaluated every complaint filed against any member of the Department over a five-year period, from complaints deemed "unfounded" to cases that went to jury verdicts at trial. The team analyzed the feelings and attitudes of the community members towards the members of the Department, and surveyed the members of the Department regarding their attitudes towards their jobs and their morale. A review of stress management programs and wellness training provided by the Department was undertaken. The Kolts team also reviewed many other aspects of the Department, with a particular focus on the Department's internal disciplinary scheme and its accountability to the public.

While the resulting 358-page Kolts Report is the product of an intensive analysis of the entire L.A. Sheriff's Department culture, for the benefit of the County Board, the following is an overview of how the team analyzed litigation against the Department and the team's recommendations in that regard.

L.A. County's analysis of civil litigation

Cost Analysis

The Kolts team reviewed force and force-related cases that fell into two categories. In one category, the team evaluated entire case files of force cases against L.A. County that either settled or resulted in verdicts of over $20,000 over a five-year period. The team did not include false arrest or failure to treat cases in this analysis unless those cases also included an excessive force component. During this time frame, 104 cases settled and 20 cases resulted in verdicts. The litigation during this timeframe cost the county a total of $18,037,789.

In the second category, the team reviewed summary memoranda of cases that settled or resulted in verdicts of $20,000 or less.

After assessing the files, the team put together a monthly cost analysis. This analysis revealed that excessive force cases were costing L.A. County an estimated $377,877 a month, not including the costs of litigation.

Pattern Analysis

The Kolts team next analyzed every imaginable variable in each case file to determine what discernible patterns evolved. The case analyses revealed two major categories of cases: 1) assaults and batteries (75% of cases) and 2) shootings (23% of cases).

The team then compiled a detailed review of what patterns evolved in each of these two categories. After a study of all cases, they discovered that the cases involving assault and battery followed a number of patterns:

- 1) assaults on citizens during minor arrests, for crimes such as traffic violations
- 2) assaults on citizens during arrests for more serious violations such as drug sales
- 3) assaults on innocent citizens mistakenly identified by the police or innocent bystanders at scenes of crimes committed by others
- 4) assaults on party goers
- 5) assaults on inmates at the jail

The team noted in each case the number of deputies and victims involved and the size and weight of the deputies versus the victims. They discovered that in many cases the deputies outnumbered and outweighed the victims, a factor that clearly weighed in favor of the victims at trial.

The team conducted a similarly thorough analysis of all officer-involved shootings, compiling trends and patterns ranging from what types of situations generally lead to shootings ultimately to how many victims had weapons at the time to etc.

Patterns in arrest results

After composing the breakdown of what types of cases generally ended in force-related litigation, the Kolts team examined whether or not the victims were generally arrested and in cases in which the victim was arrested, the disposition of their case. For example, in quite a few cases involving deputy assaults upon citizens, the arrestees were never even charged with a crime. This weighed in favor of the victims (plaintiffs) at trial. Excessive force used on a victim that is then not even accused of breaking the law is more egregious to juries.

Many more victims were charged only with crimes that related to an altercation with the Sheriff's deputies. For example, many plaintiffs did not do anything wrong other than get into an argument or verbal dispute with an arresting officer. Many times these arguments escalated into physical altercations in which too much force was used. These victims were typically charged with obstruction, resisting, or battery on the arresting officer. Few of these cases resulted in guilty verdicts against the plaintiffs.

Other factors considered

- Race of victims
- Results of all investigations done by the Department
- All personnel files of every deputy involved in every complaint
- The discipline imposed on the involved deputies

Findings

By looking carefully at which force cases resulted in punitive damages, the team identified three major factors that generally lead to large settlements or jury verdicts for plaintiffs:

- 1) the severity of the victims injuries, in particular, broken bones, knocked out teeth or any type of head injury;
- 2) whether the department filed charges against the plaintiff in connection with the incident
- 3) the existence of witness testimony

Resulting Recommendations from the LA Study

The team's principal recommendations were that:

- 1) Although discovery in civil suits produces a great deal of data about policies and procedures and background and training of officers, it is not compiled or used in the future for analysis suits should be used as a management tool. The Sheriff's Department should implement a department-wide force tracking and early warning system to monitor which deputies are prone to using more force than is necessary. The system should compile lawsuits, internal reports and citizen complaints. The circumstances that lead to potential violence are predictable if the information is tracked and utilized. The compiling of this information can also help the department recognize potential "problem officers" and demonstrate which officers need retraining. All information obtained during the course of civil litigation or via the internal investigation process should be shared with the management level employees so that they can revise policy and procedure accordingly. In addition, all information should be used to increase the frequency and severity of disciplinary measures.
- 2) The Sheriff's Department should vigorously prosecute disciplinary cases and refrain from mitigating the discipline during the hearing process.
- 3) Any excessive force complaint lodged should be included in an officer's personnel file, even if it is found "unsubstantiated." The results of any actual litigation should also be included in the file, including the amount of any verdict or settlement and any witness testimony. This will help the department identify patterns of behavior. Even if a deputy has unsubstantiated complaints in his file, if there are numerous similar complaints, this could indicate a need for retraining.
- 4) The department should compare how many internal investigations resulted in findings of "unsubstantiated" or "unfounded" but then later went on to involve jury verdicts or settlements.
- 5) Additional training should be provided to those officers that demonstrate any violent tendency.
- 6) Strict discipline should be meted out to those that fail to report fellow officers' dangerous conduct or those that cover up such behavior.

L.A. Department Improvements

Since the release of the Kolts Report, officer involved shootings have continued to drop, meaning fewer civilians and officers have been killed. In Fiscal Year 1992, 93, before the Kolts Report, the Department had 381 force-related cases pending against it. The Department's overall docket of force-related cases is down to less than 100. Also in FY92-93, the number of new force-related cases served on the Department was 88. This fiscal year it is at 32. In FY92-93, the L.A. County paid out approximately $18 million in force-related verdicts or settlements. That figure is now down to slightly more than $2 million a year.

Continuing Follow-Up

After the release of the Kolts Report, the L.A. County Board appointed the lead attorney on the team as permanent special counsel to continue to evaluate the Department and its progress in implementing the recommendations outlined in the report. As special counsel, Mr. Bobb is given wide access to department records, files, and interviews with employees. Since 1992, he has submitted semi-annual reports.

L.A. and Cook County

There are many similarities between the duties of the L.A. County Sheriff and our Cook County Sheriff. For example, the LASD operates and maintains all the county's jail facilities. The L.A. Sheriff is also responsible for transporting inmates from the jail to court and providing security for the courts. LASD enforces the laws in unincorporated L.A. County.

In addition, the L.A. County Sheriff is an elected official elected every four years. The L.A. Board, like our Cook County Board, controls the budget of the Sheriff.

Applicability to Cook County

The Kolts Report is very instructive on the issue of how to thoroughly analyze every dimension of a particular department and use that information as a learning tool to promote reform. While many specific issues that concerned L.A. County do not apply to our Sheriff's Department here in Cook County, there are a few basic recommendations that can be applied here and would help promote the same type of reflection and reform efforts that worked well in L.A.

Aggressive Internal Investigations

All litigation against the Sheriff should prompt an internal investigation. This is the rule in the Chicago Police Department and in the L.A. County Sheriff's Department. All witnesses should be interviewed and all medical evidence should be considered in determining the veracity of the allegations. Officers should be encouraged to report abuse and should be punished for failing to report abuse or for non-cooperation with an investigation.

Learning from mistakes

Each individual case or complaint should not be treated in a vacuum. The discovery process in civil suits produces a wealth of data about internal policies and procedures in the Department. This information should not be merely filed away once the case is settled or reaches a verdict. The information and knowledge gleaned from these suits should be reviewed by the Department and the Litigation Subcommittee and used to identify flawed or outdated policies and areas for improvement.

Responsive Grievance Process

Inmate grievances are relevant to the discussion of conditions at the jail, but also are useful for demonstrating trends. Numerous grievances filed against a guard, may suggest a need for retraining and/or discipline. Such steps cannot be taken if the grievances are never even looked at or investigated. A more responsive inmate grievance process should, in the long run, lead to less litigation.

JOURNAL OF PROCEEDINGS FOR MARCH 6, 2003

Early Warning System

Our Sheriff's Department can also develop a department-wide tracking and "early warning system" to monitor which deputies are prone to using more force than is necessary. The system should track any and all officers involved in lawsuits, internal proceedings and investigations and citizen complaints. The circumstances that lead to potential violence are predictable if the information is tracked and utilized. The compiling of this information can also help the department recognize potential "problem officers" and demonstrate which officers need retraining, or progressive discipline. For example, there is no reason why the Litigation Subcommittee should be considering lawsuits involving officers with 40 Internal Affairs investigations in their employment history. An accurate tracking system would help to prevent these situations in the future.

Conclusion

The Cook County Board should consider hiring an outside, objective monitor to conduct the same type of thorough analysis that L.A. County successfully conducted. The monitor should be given wide access to department records, files, and interviews with employees and should submit regular reports to the Litigation Subcommittee on the progress of the Department.

Commissioner Maldonado, seconded by Commissioner Silvestri, moved to suspend the rules so that this matter may be considered. The motion carried unanimously.

Commissioner Quigley, seconded by Commissioner Silvestri, moved that the communication be referred to the Committee on Finance. (Comm. No. 258067). The motion carried unanimously.

JOURNAL OF PROCEEDINGS FOR MARCH 6, 2003

Reason: This extension will coincide with the extension of time requests of the current armored car services contracts of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, the County Treasurer, the Recorder of Deeds, and the County Clerk. This will allow sufficient time for all four agencies to advertise for bid and award the consolidated armored car services contract. The rates in the current contract with United Armored Services will remain the same.

Estimated Fiscal Impact: $37,269.00. Contract extension: May 13, 2003 through August 12, 2003. (335-214 Account).

requesting authorization for the Purchasing Agent to extend for one (1) year, Contract No. 02-45-756 with Information Network International (INI), Houston, Texas, to continue to provide InSight Automated Records Management System software, selected hardware, training, implementation, conversion, planning and annual maintenance/license fees.

Reason: Information Network International is the sole distributor of the proprietary software InSight Automated Records Management System, an automated records management system that uses an open systems approach and desktop resources to manage all records, including active and inactive collections, database information, microfilm and digital images, electronic documents and vital records. The original contract term was to begin in January 2002 but due to a series of delays in acquiring equipment to support the software and the delay in issuing a purchase order until August, the full implementation will require another fifteen (15) months. InSight Automated Records Management System provides a solution for effective information creation, distribution, tracking, storage, protection and disposition in accordance with regulated record-keeping requirements. INI developed InSight Automated Records Management System to assist organizations undertaking workflow analysis, re-engineering and quality improvements for managing record and information assets and is able to accommodate disbursed user communities such as the Clerk of the Circuit Court. It can help provide for rigorous security and complex retention requirements, major concerns in Cook County.

Estimated Fiscal Impact: None. Contract extension: May 1, 2003 through April 30, 2004.

Commissioner Maldonado, seconded by Commissioner Murphy, moved that the County Purchasing Agent be authorized to extend the requested contract. The motion carried unanimously.

requesting authorization for the Purchasing Agent to extend for one (1) year, Contract No. 02-45-194 with Records Management Systems, Naperville, Illinois, to continue to assist in the determination of the specifications for file jackets and recommend possible conversion options.

Reason: The principal in this firm, Dianne J. Pollitt, is a Certified Records Manager and has extensive experience in analyzing filing and retrieval procedures and materials. The extension of this contract is necessary as much of Ms. Pollitt's work must be concurrent with or subsequent to the installation of the proprietary software InSight Automated Records Management System which has not been installed. She will examine the more than 150 different file jackets now used in the Circuit Clerk's Office to determine if fewer custom jackets and even stock jackets can be used in certain applications, potentially leading to significant cost savings. Ms. Pollitt will address the use of color code to aid in filing, retrieval and interfiling with potential savings in staff time. And, lastly, Ms. Pollitt will provide recommendations for the use of barcodes to track the files.

Transmitting a Communication, dated February 26, 2003 from

JOHN H. STROGER, JR., President, Cook County Board of Commissioners

As you will recall, on December 17, 2002 the County Board approved a Resolution to cede $4,000,000 of our 2002 bond volume cap to the Assist 2003 Home Buyer Assistance Program. This program provides mortgage assistance to qualified first time home buyers throughout the State of Illinois.

In order to comply with Internal Revenue Service requirements to issue tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds for residences in Cook County, I am transmitting an Ordinance for your approval authorizing the execution of an Intergovernmental Cooperation Agreement that (i) approves the issuance of the Bonds and related documents and; (ii) transfers the County's bond volume cap to the Issuers of the Bonds. A copy of the Intergovernmental Cooperation Agreement has been distributed for your review.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE COUNTY OF COOK, ILLINOIS, AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Incorporation of Recitals. The recitals contained in the preambles to this Ordinance are hereby incorporated into this Ordinance by this reference. All capitalized terms used in this Ordinance, unless otherwise defined herein, shall have the meanings ascribed thereto in the Indenture.

Section 2. Findings and Determinations. The County Board hereby finds and determines that the delegations of authority that are contained in this Ordinance, including the authority to make the specific determinations described in this Ordinance, are necessary and desirable because the County Board cannot itself as advantageously, expeditiously or conveniently exercise such authority and make such specific determinations. Thus, authority is granted to the President of the County Board (the “President”) or the Chief Financial Officer to determine to sell the Bonds and on such terms as and to the extent such officers determine that such sale or sales is desirable and in the best financial interest of the County. As used in this Ordinance, the term “Chief Financial Officer” means the Chief Financial Officer of the County appointed by the President of the County Board or, if there is no such officer then such person as shall be designated by the President.

Section 3. Authorization of Bonds. The issuance of the Bonds in an aggregate principal amount of not to exceed Five Million Dollars ($5,000,000) is hereby authorized. The aggregate principal amount of the Bonds to be issued shall be as set forth in the related notification of sale referred to below.

The Bonds shall contain a provision that they are issued under authority of this Ordinance. The Bonds shall not mature later than December 1, 2044. The Bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed ten percent (10%), payable on the interest payment date(s) as set forth in the Indenture and in the related notification of sale. The Bonds shall be dated, shall be subject to redemption prior to maturity, shall be payable in such places and in such manner and shall have such other details and provisions as prescribed by the Indenture, the form of the Bonds therein and the related notification of sale.

The provisions for execution, signatures, authentication, payment and prepayment, with respect to the Bonds shall be as set forth in the Indenture and the form of the Bonds therein.

Each of the President and the Chief Financial Officer is hereby authorized to execute and deliver the Indenture on behalf of the County, such Indenture to be in substantially the form submitted herewith as Exhibit A and made a part hereof and hereby approved with such changes therein as shall be approved by the President or the Chief Financial Officer executing the same.

Each of the President and the Chief Financial Officer is hereby authorized to act as an authorized officer (each an “Authorized Officer”) of the County for the purposes provided in the Indenture.

Each of the President and the Chief Financial Officer is hereby authorized to execute and deliver the Regulatory Agreement on behalf of the County, such Regulatory Agreement to be in substantially the form submitted herewith as Exhibit C and made a part hereof and hereby approved with such changes therein as shall be approved by the President or the Chief Financial Officer executing the same.

Each of the President and the Chief Financial Officer is each hereby authorized to execute and deliver an Arbitrage Agreement on behalf of the County, in substantially the form of tax agreements used in previous issuances of tax-exempt bonds pursuant to programs similar to the Bonds, with appropriate revisions to reflect the terms and provisions of the Bonds and the applicable provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and the regulations promulgated thereunder (the “Code”), and with such other revisions in text as the President or the Chief Financial Officer executing the same shall determine are necessary or desirable in connection with the exclusion from gross income for federal income tax purposes of interest on the Bonds. The execution of the Arbitrage Agreement by the President or the Chief Financial Officer shall be deemed conclusive evidence of the approval of the County Board to the terms provided in the Arbitrage Agreement.

Section 4. Security for the Bonds. The Bonds shall be limited obligations of the County, payable solely from all right, title and interest of the County in the GNMA mortgage backed securities purchased pursuant to the Financing Agreement, all right, title and interest of the County (other than certain reserved rights of the County as described in the Indenture) in the Financing Agreement, the proceeds of the Bonds and income from the temporary investment thereof, as provided in the Indenture. In order to secure the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Bonds, such rights, proceeds and investment income are hereby pledged to the extent and for the purposes as provided in the Indenture and are hereby appropriated for the purposes set forth in the Indenture. Nothing contained in this Ordinance shall limit or restrict the subordination of the pledge of such rights, proceeds and investment income as set forth in the Indenture to the payment of any other obligations of the County enjoying a lien or claim on such rights, proceeds and investment income as of the date of issuance of the Bonds, all as shall be determined by the Chief Financial Officer at the time of the sale of the Bonds. The Indenture shall set forth such covenants with respect to the application of such rights, proceeds and investment income as shall be deemed necessary by the Chief Financial Officer in connection with the sale of the Bonds.

The compensation paid to the Underwriters in connection with the sale of the Bonds shall not exceed three percent (3%) of their aggregate principal amount. In connection with the offer and delivery of the Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer, and such other officers of the County as may be necessary, are authorized to execute and deliver such instruments and documents as may be necessary to implement the transaction and to effect the issuance and delivery of the Bonds. Any limitation on the amount of Bonds issued pursuant to this Ordinance as set forth herein shall be exclusive of any original issue discount or premium.

A portion of the cost of the acquisition, rehabilitation and equipping of the Development which the County intends to finance with the proceeds of the Bonds may have been paid from available monies of the Borrower prior to the date of this Ordinance. It is the intention of the County to utilize a portion of the proceeds of the Bonds to reimburse such expenditures (if any) which have been or will be made for those costs, to the extent allowed by the Code. It is necessary and in the best interests of the County to declare its official intent under Section 1.150-2 of the Treasury Regulations promulgated under the Code so to utilize those Bond proceeds.
